

The National Pages

Media Release

Ref: SWS/JEN008

May 30, 2008

The National Pages cheque for children's hospice

A cheque for £140 was presented to the Children's Hospice South West thanks to Devon business bosses who attended the launch in Exeter of The National Pages.

The money was raised from businesses which gave a donation as they signed-up for a gold package with The National Pages, an innovative new internet business search tool projected to become as big as yell.com.

The launch event was held in the city's Thistle Hotel and organised by Taunton-based Somerset Web Services, which has spent the past three years developing The National Pages.

The evening included a performance by internationally-known psychological illusionist Paul Stockman, which was arranged by The National Pages promoters Dymond Promotions.

Other charities around the country will benefit as The National Pages is rolled out in a series of roadshows over the coming months.

The National Pages incorporates an array of search features which make it the most powerful web-based tool available for anybody wanting to find a business or service anywhere in the country.

It has 2.5 million UK businesses in its database which can be searched by distance from a location, by product, by category, and by name.

More information about The National Pages is available by telephoning 08456 219 219 or emailing enquiries@thenationalpages.co.uk or visiting the website www.thenationalpages.co.uk.

- Our photograph shows Children's Hospice South West corporate partnerships fund-raiser Anne Packer receiving a cheque at the launch of The National Pages from managing director Nigel Finch (left) and Geoff Dymond, of Dymond Promotions.

ENDS

Notes for Editor:

- A jpeg is attached to this media release, for which a caption is included in the text above

- Queries on this media release can be directed in the first instance to Julia Netherton or John Thorne, M2S Media, PR consultants to Somerset Web Services, on 01823 663146 or email julia@m2smedia.co.uk or john@m2smedia.co.uk